Happy Thanksgiving Week Ahead!

This Week's Featured Business:

Brickhouse Italian Restaurant & Pizzeria

Brickhouse is one of our favorite restaurants to eat at in New Milford. In fact, we eat there once a week. The owners Sal and Maria are very welcoming and always say hello to every customer like we are part of their family. The staff is amazing as well, from greeting us at the entrance to making sure we have everything we need. The food is amazing as well, from their pizzas to their wide selection of entrees. Jackson's go to is Penne with butter and cheese, lots of cheese. When you walk in you can see the guys making the pizzas and the sitting area has an Italian vibe especially with the Italian music playing. They also offer a catering menu for parties and special events. Next time you're in the mood for Italian stop by and enjoy a good meal.

Heather's Favorite?

My favorite is the Chicken Parm with Penne. Yum!

Last Week's $100 Gift Card Winner

Congratulations to last week's winner Leslie M., from New Milford who won the $100 gift card to The Cue in Danbury. We hope they enjoy getting out of Town and testing that yummy BBQ!

The Week Ahead in Weather & Events

Everyone is gearing up for Turkey Day next week. Getting the last-minute items they need for their Thanksgiving Feast. Also, people are getting a head start on decorating for Christmas, getting their yards ready with twinkling lights and Holiday blow ups. John Pettibone Community Center is hosting a Thanksgiving PomPom workshop for the little ones and Canterbury will be having Ice Skating lessons. Holiday Craft Fairs will also begin this weekend so head on down and find some cute gifts for the Holidays.

Washington will be having a Sip and Pour Candle Making Class at Hopkins Vineyard on Saturday. That sounds fun! They will also be having live music as well on Sunday. Don't forget to click on the underlined links for more info about each event!

The Safari Collective

In 2014, Sarah Lopes founded The Safari Collective with the goal in mind to feel more connected to each little detail of our everyday life. In May 2016, The Safari Collective expanded from an online store to a retail storefront in Sarah's hometown of New Milford, Connecticut. In March 2023, 'new' Sarah, Sarah Edwards took over ownership of The Safari Collective with the aim of building on the store's stalwart foundations.

In today's world of constant consumerism, their aim is to be a more ethical option and conscious choice. Their products are all handmade by American makers. By learning the story behind the products we invest in, we are participating in smart buying, a practice that supports sustainable and ethical production and values handmade. Their selection ranges from home decor, kitchen wares, ceramics, food provisions, jewelry, apothecary, paper goods and more.

Heather's Favorite?

There are so many cool items to buy here from beauty to clothes to home goods but I'm always drawn towards their jewelry. I love delicate jewelry pieces, and they always have what I'm looking for from necklaces to earrings.

Last Week's $100 Gift Card Winner

Congratulations to last week's winner Jennifer T., from New Milford who won the $100 gift card to Centerbook Farm in New Milford. I have a feeling she will find the world's best pumpkin there!

The Week Ahead in Weather & Events

This weekend's weather is looking great! Take a drive around New Milford and our surrounding towns to see the Fall foliage. Love heading up to Kent around this time to see the trees. The trees are looking beautiful this time of year with the different colors of red, orange, yellow and brown. Also get your popcorn, movie snacks, and drinks ready for The Adams Family movie being played at The Youngs Field this Friday at 7pm and remember to dress warm. Kimberly Farm is having their 1st Fall Festival on Sunday and of course, Scarrybrooke is still scaring people with their Haunted Trail this weekend.

Don't miss:
